Census produces statistics that help Americans better understand our country — its population, resources, economy, society, and culture.

The Census Bureau is empowered to gather objective statistical information as the foundation to a system of elective government, as the means for informed decision-making by businesses, city planners, non-profit organizations, and individual Americans.

In addition to conducting a census every 10 years, the Census Bureau conducts surveys on virtually every aspect of life in the United States. It is recognized as the premier statistical organization in the world — known for the integrity, objectivity, accuracy, and privacy of its data. As a valued member of the Census Team, you will be responsible for contributing to the fabric of our nation — where every one counts.

"The mark of a truly educated man is to be deeply moved by statistics."
